THE WANTANABE STORY CONTINUES.....

When I asked Kotaro to share their family experiences with our community I really had no idea just how insightful these stories would be in terms of what it is like settling in a new land. Quite humbling in terms of the challenges and the help along the way. This week the story appears on page eight.

Book Week

And that is a wrap ..... what an amazing week we have all just had! We hope you loved Book Week 2017 just as much as us.

STOP PRESS! We sold close to $32,000 worth of books of which the school has earned over $6,000! That is an amazing achievement and we thank each of you for supporting Book Week and spreading the love of reading far and wide.

This year we had our first BW Breakfast and we were overwhelmed with the response and were happy to host close to 300 children and the special person they read with! Thank you to Bakers Delight, The Dairy Collective and Greens for providing us with our yummy breakfast.

This was our biggest year yet for author visits - many thanks to Sally Sutton, Jenny Bates, Chris Sanders, Peter Millett, John Carr, Liz Donnelly, Joanna Grochowicz, June Pitman, Anne Kayes, Lisa Dam and her librarians, Rosie Boom, Ross Kinnaird, Jenny Watt, Shiree Schumacher, Marilyn Bakker and Kat Merewether for wowing us and inspiring us to be better readers.

Thank you to our BW Sponsors who without we wouldn't have been to host as many authors as we did!

Grandparents' Day was a great success and we were happy to see good use of the The Coffee Guy! We loved all the effort you went to for the Book Character Parade and for your BW doors.

Thank you to all of you who donated a book to the school library. We now have 26 lovely new books for us all to enjoy.

We would love your feedback on BW 2017 - who were your favourite authors, who would you love to see again visit us, anyone else you would love to visit us in 2018 and any other feedback. Please email us at friends@campbellsbay.school.nz.

Have a safe and enjoyable summer break - the BW committee are looking forward to a well earned rest. We will back next year but until then happy reading!

Your Book Week Committee - Tash Bartlett, Christine McLean and Laura Irvine.

Class Placements and Reports

The 2018 class placement information for your child will be sent home tomorrow. A huge amount of quality time has been constructing classes and due note has been taken to comments made by parents by way of the forms that were completed and returned by parents.

Reports for 2017 will be sent home with your children next Monday. Enjoy ☺

Book Week

What a week it was. Thank you to everybody who helped out to make it the huge success it undoubtedly was. While there was, literally, a cast of (almost) thousands, three people spearheaded the week, namely Tash, Laura and Christine. Thank you to the three of you for being the champions and to everybody who helped make this occasion the rich celebration of literature it most surely was. And to think, years ago books were predicted to be usurped by the technology of e-books! While the electronic medium has its place, when it comes to the joy of picking up a much loved book to read or to have it read to you, an electronic book comes a distant second. And, what can compare to the sheer crispness and smell of a brand new book?! We are blessed to be surrounded by vast amounts of literature and to have so much of that literature residing in our library/learning hub is a privilege.

When Book Week started many years ago we could count the number of visiting authors on the fingers of one hand. This year we had over 30 authors visiting, sharing their craft and their passion with us. Having book sales in excess of $30,000 during the week was a bonus. Knowing that so many books are going to be shared during the upcoming holidays is the icing on the cake of what has been a wonderful week. Thank you.

Not Self But Service

With our focus for the rest of the year on helping the Auckland City Mission help others over the Christmas period, here are some ways we can all help.

'Santa's Helpers'

Send to school any day (or days!) that suit you, non perishable food and new, unwrapped toys to give to families in need this Christmas. The CBS Student Council and the 'Not Self But Service' group would love families to start thinking about what you can donate to help support families in need. Please start sending non perishable foods and unwrapped toys as soon as you can.

Thanks ☺

More Classrooms for CBS

The Ministry of Education is providing additional classrooms for our school in response to projected roll growth in 2018. While some of the classrooms are for anticipated roll growth, other classrooms are in response to a need to catch up for classroom accommodation as we have been under entitlement for part of this year.

We expect the Ministry to deliver classrooms after 10.00pm on 9, 11 and 16 December. They must be transported at night and before the Christmas holiday period commences in order to comply with transport requirements to have all over-size loads off the roads before the holiday season commences. The six classrooms, plus toilet facilities, will be sited adjacent to the five classrooms on the field. It is expected the eleven classrooms will remain until the Ministry builds permanent classrooms. It is hoped the relocatable buildings will be removed in 2020 - 2021.

By 2019 it is anticipated we will have created 'new entrant central' using the eleven classrooms on the field with a playground, decking and a sandpit purpose built in the court yard provided by the placement of the relocatable classrooms. We expect to achieve a warm and welcoming area for our new entrants, giving them a more 'five year old sized area' to transition from early childhood education to school.

Police Vetting: Urgent & Important!

Only adults who have had a police vet will be able to help with school activities from January 2017 onwards.

As obtaining a police vet takes time, if you are considering being available to help with school activities in any way in 2017 please act now, as follows.....

Please go to the school website to 'Police Vetting for Volunteers at CBS' under Parent Information and complete the form and attach photocopies as per the instructions.

Please note a police vet remains current for three years after the date of issue by the police.

Absences

Just a reminder that if your child is going to be absent from school, we request you advise the school office before 9am, not just the class teacher.

safetycheck@campbellsbay.school.nz, use the Flexibuzz App or call 410 9551.

For extended holidays ie: more than one day, a request should be made to Mr McGowan for the time off. These requests can be emailed to:

admin@campbellsbay.school.nz.

This is a Ministry of Education requirement.

We work very hard at keeping your children safe at school and appreciate your assistance with our process.

Years 0 - 2 will perform from the bank at 4.30pm.

Years 3 - 6 as well as Kapahaka, will perform on the bank at 5.15pm with an expected finish by 6.00pm.

Have a picnic Dinner - there will be hot food trucks ranging from $5 - $12, as well as drinks, from 4.00pm - 7.30ish.

20% of the rides and varying percentages from the food trucks and drinks marquees will benefit our school hall upgrade fund.

We look forward to seeing you on the 13th for the performance and fun 😊

EPro8 Technology challenge

On Thursday the HBID Challengers took part in the EPro8 Technology challenge Semi finals at Glenfield Intermediate. There were 12 teams competing for the top two positions.

Hannake, Blake, Isobel and Domenik did a fantastic job at designing a motorised fishing rod that beeped to tell the fisherman they had caught a fish, could reel in a fish and swing around at different angles.

It was a tight, tough competition and the team did extremely well placing 7th.

Well done guys. I am very proud of you all I hope you all had fun completing the challenges.

Watanabes' story - Story 6

One sunny Sunday afternoon, not long after our children started CBS, we dropped by Milford beach on our way back from (most probably) shopping. The visit was not planned so we didn't have any togs with us. I moaned because the weather provided a perfect condition for a swim (now we have our togs in our car so that we can have a dip anytime). Satsuki and Riku were playing on the playground with my wife watching them and I was taking a beach walk with Kanjiro who was still 2 years and 10 months. As we had been very busy settling down, we didn't have much time to enjoy the beaches. The walk was pleasant. Kanjiro was so excited about the vast blue ocean in front of him that I had to hold him back not to run into the water. After we walked a long stretch of the beach, I decided to go back to the playground. I was feeling happy and refreshed. As we got near the playground, I saw Satsuki crying and my wife was speaking to her. "She must have had a fight with her brother", I thought. I was still feeling good and walking towards them with a smile. Then I noticed something unusual. I had never seen her crying like that. My wife said she had missed a grip on the monkey bar and fallen to the ground. The status of her told us we should go home so we did. Satsuki was in agony all the way back home. As soon as Satsuki sat down (or collapsed, more precisely) on the floor, she fell fast asleep. It confused us to a great extent, however, it was obvious something really bad was going on and we'd better take her to a doctor as soon as possible. But where to take her? We were still not familiar with the medical on Northshore... then we remembered Mrs H was working at North Shore Hospital. That's the place to go. As it was Sunday, the outpatients' ward was closed so we took Satsuki, with Riku and Kanjiro as supporting staff, to the emergency. The emergency receptionist registered Satsuki and told us to go to the waiting area. There were more emergency patients, most of whom were children, than I expected. I saw a dad pacing up and down in the corridor with a baby boy in his arms. On the forehead of the baby boy, was a huge, painful looking lump. On a sofa, a granddad was holding a little girl. She developed a very high fever in the afternoon, the granddad said. He also said he was waiting for their turn for hours. While I was talking with those gentlemen, I was thinking weekend nights might be the busiest time at the emergency ward and it was going to be a long wait.

We waited and soon my two boys were getting tired and hungry. I couldn't blame them because it was well past their bedtime. I took them to a small compartment where there was a TV so that their attention was directed to something else. Then I told my wife, who was looking after Satsuki, that I would go out to buy something to eat and I dashed out like a superhero. When I got out of the hospital, I realised I had no idea which way to go! The choice was right or left so I took left and started running. I spotted a fish and chips takeaway down the road. Wonderful smell was wafting from the fish and chips being fried but I could not enjoy it at all. As soon as I grabbed my takeaways, I started rushing back to the hospital. The boys ate a lot and it was our first "proper" takeaway experience in New Zealand. It still took long before Satsuki's turn came. She was x-rayed. While we were waiting for her outside, we spotted a piece of paper stuck on the wall. It was a medical cost list. I took a close look at it and one item caught my eye:

Operation: $60 per minute.

My heart almost stopped. My wife and I looked at each other. It seemed that she was having the same thoughts as me. My mental calculator added up all the possible costs and churned out some impossible amount. Being shocked, I said to my wife, "Did you see that? It's $60 per minute. Our stay in this country is over, isn't it?" Then I started feeling so bad and embarrassed because I was worried about a too early end of our stay in this country although my daughter might have to go through an operation. Looking back, the list was for those who were not insured and the cases not covered by ACC but I was forgetting my children were insured. (It is compulsory all the international students are insured). In addition, I didn't know there was a medical scheme called ACC.

The doctor discovered a broken elbow. He explained about the diagnosis and instructed us to take her to Starship for an operation. "Starship ... ok we will" I said but in my mind I was asking myself "Starship? What is he talking about? I don't know what Starship is". A nurse sensed we were totally lost and passed us a map. Satsuki's elbow was plastered. The plaster practitioner was very kind and trying his best to divert her attention from the pain caused by the injury.

The date had already changed. There were few cars on the motorway so it didn't take long to get to Starship where we were told her operation would be conducted in the morning. As only one of us was allowed to accompany Satsuki, we decided I would stay, my wife would drive the boys back home. The clock showed it was 3 o'clock. My wife left for her first "proper" driving experience in New Zealand. The boys were exhausted to the core. The nurse, who was pushing the wheelchair Satsuki was in, was nicely talking to Satsuki all the way up to the room. I knew she was, just like the plaster practitioner, trying to relieve her stress, which I very much appreciated. Satsuki slept on a bed and I slept on a mattress on the floor. Although it was still summer, it was very cold that night. I complained to myself about the cold air once or twice but I fell in asleep in almost no time. It was a long day.

I was having a dream or two. I thought I heard a gentle voice in the distance. "... Mr Watanabe ... Mr Watanabe ...". I opened my eyes. Someone opened a curtain, saying "Good morning. Mr. Watanabe". There standing a doctor flanked by about 10 (they looked like) trainee doctors. It took a while until I realised I was in the hospital and Satsuki would undergo an operation. He explained to me how he was going to fix her elbow. He also said the operation would go well but she might have some after-effects depending on the recovery. A few hours later, the stretcher on which Satsuki was lying was being pushed to the anesthesia room. As soon as the anesthesia mask was put over her mouth, Satsuki lost consciousness. That was one of the scariest moments I've ever had. I knew it was categorised as a minor operation and there would be no major issues. I knew that but it didn't stop me worrying. "If it was a major operation ...", I thought. I couldn't imagine more than that. I was told to wait outside the operation theater until the operation was complete. I didn't feel like staying inside the hospital ward so I went outside and sat down on the grass. Everything was business as usual. The morning sun was bright, under which cicadas were singing to live their short over-ground lives. All I could do was pray to them that the operation was going to be alright.

My phone rang. At the other end of the line, a nurse said the operation was successful. When I got to Satsuki's room, she was still in a deep sleep. Soon after my wife and the boys arrived at the hospital. The boys were so exhausted that it took a long time for them to leave home. They were relieved to hear that the operation was successful. A nurse called me to come over to the reception for the discharge registration. I was expecting a huge medical bill but this time I was prepared. What happens happens, I thought. The receptionist said ACC would make a decision over whether the medical expenses should be covered by ACC or not and I would be informed of the final decision later on.

Satsuki was discharged from the hospital. We got in our car and I started reversing the car. Then we felt a shock. I reversed the car into a carpark column. The column was intact but the car bumper got dented a little bit. Satsuki said the bump hurt her elbow...

Satsuki went back to school the day after. After school we went to Centennial park and our children played there. Riku and Kanjiro were running around and Satsuki was already jumping. An ACC letter arrived one afternoon and it said all the medical expenses would be covered by ACC. It came as a great relief to me. At the same time, I was very thankful. The cast was taken off four weeks later and her elbow made a remarkable recovery without any after-effects. I didn't have any chances to personally thank Dr. C after the operation, which is a shame. We escaped, no we were saved, from the first crisis thanks to the generosity of this country. (To be continued).
